Admission Requirements

The Transportation and Supply Chain Ph.D. program is open to qualified graduates of universities and colleges of recognized standing. To be admitted with full standing, the applicant must:

1. Hold a master's degree (preferred) from an educational institution of recognized learning, baccalaureate degree a minimum.
 2. Have adequate preparation in one or more of the disciplines comprising transportation and supply chain.
 3. Have shown the potential to undertake advanced study and research as evidenced by prior academic performance
 4. Have earned a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0 or equivalent in all courses completed at the highest education level reached
 5. Submit a NDSU Graduate College application consisting of the application, statement of purpose, official transcripts, letters of reference, and English proficiency scores (if applicable). Additional documents that may be submitted could include resume and professional vita. Applications for admission will be submitted via the Graduate College website. Applicants must meet all application requirements of the graduate school and department before being considered for acceptance.
- For acceptance into a Fall semester, international applications are due December 1.
 - Domestic applications will be reviewed as they are received, and admitted students may be able to enroll in an earlier semester than the above deadlines.
 - Students who do not meet all requirements for admission or have deficiencies in prerequisite course work, but show satisfactory potential for graduate study, may be admitted conditionally. The conditional status may be changed to full graduate standing after the first or second semester of study, based on the student's academic performance.

Financial Assistance

The number of assistantships vary from year to year, depending on grant availability and the number of students in residence. Applicants are considered on the basis of merit and potential to undertake advanced study and research. To be considered for an assistantship, an applicant must complete a Graduate College application, be accepted by the department, and identify the desire for an assistantship or financial need in the statement of purpose.

In addition to the stipend, graduate assistants receive a graduate tuition waiver. Tuition waivers cover base tuition for NDSU graduate credits only. Students are responsible for differential tuition, student fees, and tuition for non-graduate level credits taken or Cooperative Education credits.
