The Extension Education Minor provides educational background and presentation skills for individuals who seek careers associated with Extension. This minor is offered to all student across the University pursuing any degree program. The minor is appropriate for many majors across the university including Human Development and Family Science, as well as majors within the College of Agriculture, Food Systems, and Natural Resources.

If you seek the preparation to utilize your primary major toward helping people in all parts of our communities by extending the knowledge of NDSU to benefit them, the Extension Education Minor is a perfect addition to your undergraduate studies. Along with foundational courses in Extension Education and teaching & learning, you will engage in a required internship experience through an Extension system office. Giving you the hands-on, real-world experience, you need for success! The Extension Education Minor can be added to any plan of study.
