

Admission

Selective and Limited Admission Programs

Admission to a number of undergraduate academic programs is selective and/or limited. Admission to the university does not guarantee entrance to a specific undergraduate major. Students declaring these majors will first be admitted to a pre-major program. These pre-major programs may require a supplemental application made to the department and/or require students to meet minimum grades or achieve a minimum GPA in the pre-major courses. Typically these programs require that minimum standards be met and maintained for continuous enrollment and advancement in the program. Contact the academic department for further admission criteria.
